

Annette Larsson

The Artist

She's like fireworks on the stage. You can see it when the tiny lady with the big voice and long blond hair moving to the music. With a spark in her clear blue eyes she sings line by line of what lies closest to her heart; contemporary country music with a dash of pop that will make you soul dance. But who is she really? And why don't we know her already? The answer is simple – maybe you do.

It started early. She was only seven years old when she stood in her parents' living room singing her heart out with a microphone attached to her fathers accordion amplifier. Already then she sang country music, and the first musical seed was planted.

From 1989 and up to 2009 she was the lead singer in several different bands. The style spanned from traditional country music to blues. When she decided to quit in January 2009 it was because "During all these years I have always felt that I had to compromise myself and never actually got to express the real me", so she decided that now is the time to go solo. At the same time she got a phone call from an old friend, Asbjørn Nordgaard, who told her he was on his way to Nashville to look for material to record with different artists. "He wondered if he should be on the lookout for material for me, and I obviously said yes. I believe it was a strike of faith and I don't regret it for a second!". The first step had been taken.

"I try to reflect me and my positivity as a person through music and lyrics"

- Annette Larsson

It is as a solo artist that she is hoping that people will discover her devotion towards music, and that the reason for being on a stage is not only to live out a lifelong dream, but equally to give her audience an adventure. "My goal is to enhance inner feelings within my audience. I want them to feel the same joy as me when performing a positive message, and equally the same downward feeling when the song is sad", she says. "I try to reflect me and my positivity as a person through music and lyrics. Going through life worrying is a time-waster, and that's why I feel at best when I can be up on that stage and perform about things I consider to be positive in life!".
